Photo Albums on the SDOS Website

Introduction

SDOS Members who take photos when out birding often attach record shots of their sightings etc. to posts on the User Group. These are stored on the User Group server and can be accessed by User Group subscribers who register with groups.io in order to access the group messages, photos etc on a browser.

The photos displayed in albums in the gallery on our website should be more than just record shots and have both photographic merit as well as interest for birders. Examples can be seen in the various albums in the Gallery on our website (see https://www.sdos.org/gallery.html). The various albums can be viewed by using the drop-down menu which appears as a narrow white box in the top right corner of the image area. Albums prefixed 'Index' are special albums which contain the images displayed in slide-shows on some of the pages.

Photographic Notes

- Images will generally have been taken with a DSLR or Bridge(superzoom) camera in order to achieve sufficient definition to enable cropping to give a satisfactory result which will stand enlargement without significant loss of quality.
- Lanscape (or square) format should be used (to avoid the need to scroll down the image).
- Only JPG/JPEG files can be uploaded onto the website.
- Image files should not be compressed before uploading (maximum size is 15MB) and they will be stored at full size.
- The gallery images are displayed with a standard 600px width.
- File names must not begin with a non-alphanumeric character. Display order is determined by the filename order, but files can be renamed after uploading.
- You may add IPTC (International Press Telecommunications Council) information to the image to display a title and caption and also to give the author's name and copyright information
